ACTIVITIES

889 Enroll for 1994-1995

A total of 889 students enrolled at Morris for the fall semester of the 1994-95 academic year.

The college population included 326 freshmen, 261 sophomores, 170 juniors, and 131 seniors and one continuing education student.

Morris students represented 44 South Carolina counties, 19 states and the District of Columbia.

The top South Carolina enrollment counties are Sumter with 177, Florence with 72, Williamsburg with 58, Clarendon with 48, and Marion with 42.

Morris' top five enrollment states — other than South Carolina — are New York, Georgia, New Jersey, Florida and North Carolina.

What better place to get enrollment information than from the Office of Admissions and Records. Mrs. Queen Spann, Director, advises these students on registration procedures.

Students, students everywhere. That's how it is during registration at Morris College. Waiting is the name of the game.

Hornet ROTC Has New Leadership

The Morris College ROTC Program has new leadership this year — Captain Louis B. Wingate as Officer in Charge, and Cadet Company Commander Laura Byrd.

Wingate, a native of Darlington and graduate of South Carolina State University, said his final goal is for all cadets to pass their academic classes. His next goal is to "produce the best quality officers to lead the U.S. Army into the 21st century and represent the Morris College name."

Other goals that Cpt. Wingate have set include "ensuring that all cadets develop those leadership skills that are deep within them, and making sure that the ROTC program at Morris College continues to grow and prosper."

When Laura Byrd was appointed commander of the 68-member Hornet Company, she became only the second woman to head the unit in its nine-year history.

She entered Morris in 1991 after graduating from Dillon High School and enrolled in the ROTC program the same year. She signed a contract with the Army during her junior year and plans to pursue a medical career following her tour of duty in the armed service.

Byrd is a biology major, honor student, chaplain of the senior class, treasurer of the biology club, and a nominee of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Roslyn Harrison is Campus Queen

As always, one of the highlight activities of the fall semester is the coronation of the campus queen.

Roslyn Harrison, senior biology major from Ridgeway, was crowned "Miss Morris College 1994-95" during ceremonies October 14 in Garrick-Boykin Human Development Center.

This year's coronation theme was "An Evening of Caribbean Elegance."

Attendants for the queen are Shaniqua Walton, junior biology major from Charleston, and Avril Philander, junior political science/history major from Easley.

Roslyn is the daughter of Mrs. Johnnie Mae Harrison and the late Brown Harrison of Ridgeway.

Miss Morris College is a Presidential Scholar, an O.R. Reuben Scholar, an honoree of the Dean's List, and member of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

These lovely young ladies graced Miss Morris College's Court as queens of campus organizations.

Seated: Monica Johnson, Ms. Margaret Bailey and Maria Oxendine. Standing: Keonte Jenkins, Jonathan Woodward and Roslyn Harrison.

Seniors Visit Ohio State

Four Morris seniors attended the Ohio State University Graduate School Visitation Program in October in Columbus, OH.

While on campus, they toured academic facilities and met with departmental officials who screen prospective students for fellowships and grants.

Monica Johnson, a 1993 Morris alumna pursuing a Master of Social Work degree, was among those greeting them and providing valuable information about OSU.

Students selected to attend the visitation program were Keonte Jenkins, sociology major; Maria Oxendine, mathematics major; Johnathan Woodward, business administration major; and Roslyn Harrison, biology major.

Ms. Margaret Bailey, Director of Career Planning, Cooperative Education and Placement, accompanied the group to Ohio State.

Thanksgiving Rally Held

Gifts totaling nearly $1 million were reported at the annual Thanksgiving Rally/Worship/Homecoming Service at Morris College on Thanksgiving Day 1994.

Records in the Office of Institutional Advancement show $985,115.84 received from the Baptist Educational and Missionary Convention of South Carolina, Baptist Convention auxiliaries, the Morris College National Alumni Association, the United Negro College Fund, Faculty/Staff/Student organizations, Sumter businesses, bequests, several estates, and friends of the college.

The Thanksgiving Day events included an address by Dr. Allen Weaver, President of the Baptist Minister's Conference of New York City and Vicinity, and a parade through the streets of Sumter, led by the Mt. Pleasant High School Band.

Dr. Weaver addresses audience in Garrick-Boykin Human Development Center.

A large crowd attended the annual Thanksgiving celebration.

REPORT ON HBCU'S

Magazine Lauds Morris' Enrollment Growth

Morris College's outstanding record of achievements in enrollment and innovative outreach programs drew praise in an article in the January/February 1995 issue of ACADEME, the widely circulated publication of the American Association of University Professors.

In a special report, "The Historically Black Colleges and Universities: A Future in Balance," the AAUP focused attention on the threat to the HBCUs and on the accomplishments that justify their existence.

The report was prepared by the AAUP's Committee L on the Historically Black Institutions and the Status of Minorities in the Profession.

"The HBCU's should not only be allowed to exist; they should be valued and nourished," the committee said.

The report detailed many of the achievements of the HBCU's and noted that almost 40 percent of the nation's Black college graduates were educated at the schools.

AAUP researchers cited enrollment data from Morris College and 11 other HBCUs to demonstrate the impact of rapidly rising enrollments at the institutions.

"Morris College in South Carolina has doubled its enrollment in the past 20 years and in 1993 reached its record high enrollment of 938," the report stated.

Additionally, the researchers noted an apparent increase in the transfer of Black students from predominately White institutions to HBCUs.

Again, Morris College was among the schools reporting a transfer trend in the enrollment of Black students who previously attended predominately White institutions of higher learning.

Supporting data in the ACADEME article provided information on numerous programs and services being sponsored by HBCUs to respond to societal needs. Among these, the report noted: "Morris College is instituting community service projects involving students and faculty and directed toward the City of Sumter, South Carolina, and its surrounding areas."

Also, "Morris College operated an Upward Bound Program targeting public school students in a four-county area of South Carolina," the report added.

Morris Gets $283,000 Grant

Morris College has received a three-year, $283,000 Minority Science Improvement Grant from the U.S. Department of Education.

Dr. Radman M. Ali, Chairman of Morris' Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics, said the grant will be used to integrate multimedia technology into five pre-calculus mathematics courses and to develop a new course in molecular biology.

"The project supported by this grant is designed to revitalize the mathematics curriculum by establishing a computerized learning resources center, training the faculty in the use of new materials and technologies, adopting and using materials being used in other institutions, and conducting pilot and experimental studies designed to streamline the newly instituted procedures and evaluate their effectiveness," Dr. Ali said.

The program is expected to affect over 430 students during the three-year period of the grant.

As chairman of Morris' Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics, Dr. Radman M. Ali will oversee the project supported by the $283,000 grant.

The grant will make it possible to equip a computer laboratory with twenty-five 486 computers, a giga-byte file server, a laser printer, a Novell Network and multimedia mobile stations.

Dr. Ali said faculty members will be initially trained on the use of the Integrated Computerized Instructional Support System (ICISS) and the Electronic Lecture Notes (ELN), and on integrating these technologies into five pre-calculus mathematics courses. Later on, ICISS and ELN will be expanded to include other aspects of the science curriculum.

"The impact of this project will be far-reaching," Dr. Ali concluded. "It will expose faculty members and students to the state of the art in computer technology and will enhance student performance and preparedness for future careers."

Approximately 1,000 Baptist Church leaders, alumni and friends of the college attended the fundraiser.

Congressman Speaks at Banquet

Congressman James E. Clyburn, who in 1992 became the first Black elected to Congress from South Carolina since Reconstruction, was the featured speaker at Morris' Mid-Winter Banquet and Rally February 24 in Garrick-Boykin Human Development Center.

A native of Sumter, Clyburn entered public service after he graduated from South Carolina State University. He served four years on the staff of Gov.

John C. West before being appointed Commissioner of the state's Human Affairs Commission. During his 19 years in the post, the agency established an outstanding record of successes with legislative initiatives.

In November 1994, Rep. Clyburn was reelected to a second term in the state's Sixth Congressional District which includes Sumter.

Pastors Help Revive Faith

Appearing at the annual Religious Emphasis Week services February 21-24 were Rev. Melvin Mack, pastor of Salem Baptist Church of Darlington, who preached a soul-stirring sermon at the opening service, and Dr. Charles H. Jackson, pastor of Brookland Baptist Church of West Columbia, who delivered inspirational messages Tuesday evening through Friday morning.

178 Academic Achievers are Recognized

One hundred seventy-eight students were recognized for outstanding academic achievements at Morris' spring Honors Day Convocation.

The honorees included four on the President's List with perfect grade point averages of 4.0 for the 1994 fall semester; Deborah A. Hunter, senior business administration major; Pertrina D. Fulton, freshman biology major; Tanika C. McWilliams, freshman business administration major; and Marian E. White, freshman elementary education major.

Thirty-five students made the Dean's List with 3.5 to 3.9 grade point averages and 76 with gpa's of 3.0 to 3.4.

Fifty freshmen who completed their second semester of classes with cumulative grade point averages of 3.0 or better were recognized as O.R. Reuben Scholars.

Senior elementary education majors Demetria D. Brown and Ureka R. Durant and senior biology major Keonte L. Jenkins were cited for being named to the President's List and/or Dean's List for six consecutive semesters.

Morris' Honors Day convocation featured an address by Dr. Georgia L. Smith, who joined the faculty this year as associate professor of early childhood education.

Another program highlight was the induction of 11 new RARE members into the Morris College Honors Program.

Taking a pledge to be Reinforcers, Achievers, and Representatives of Excellence were Mahassen Banks, Eric Green, Travis Holmes, Yolanda Reid, Cassandra Shaw, Jamey Graham, Cassandra Hall, Shalonda Reid, Bobby Shaw,

KaDana Simmons and Marian White.

Ten students enrolled in the Morris College School of Theology also were on the fall semester honor roll.

Morris students received valuable information regarding the world of work from Black executives during the 27th annual career seminar.

27th Career Seminar Held

Twenty-one successful African American professionals from the corporate world and government served as visiting professors during Morris College's 27th annual Career Seminary March 22-24.

Sponsored in cooperation with the National Urban League's Black Executive Exchange Program (BEEP), the seminar featured lectures, workshops, career planning exercises, and counseling. This year's theme was "Professional Image Development: What's Needed in the Workplace and Beyond?"

"The program placed emphasis on the selection of realistic career choices, the charting of career paths, resume preparation, and the development of good interviewing skills," said Ms. Margaret A. Bailey, Director of Morris' Office of Career Planning, Cooperative Education and Placement.

Tuition Grants Program Praised

Darren Holmes, president of the Morris College Student Government Association and one of 543 students receiving state tuition grants to support their educational expenses, attended a special program at the State Capitol building in Columbia March 23 to convey to legislators his appreciation for the financial aid.

The 25th anniversary of the state tuition grants program and its continued importance were emphasized March 20-24, proclaimed by Gov. David Beasley as South Carolina Independent Colleges and University Week.

The tuition grants provide financial assistance to moderate and low income South Carolinians who choose to attend a private college or university in the state.

Holmes and other Morris students received an average state tuition grant of $1,501 for the 1994-95 academic year.

"If it weren't for the grants I have received each year, I wouldn't have been able to continue my education at Morris," said Holmes, a senior elementary education major from Georgetown.

Dean Eliza E. Black Retiring

Eliza E. Black, long-time and highly-respected Dean of Students Affairs at Morris, is retiring June 30, 1995 after 40 years of distinguished service.

She began teaching freshman English at Morris in 1955 shortly after graduating from the college. She was a full-time instructor until the early 1970s while pursuing graduate work for the M.S. degree at South Carolina State University and studying additionally at the University of Rhode Island, New York University, Columbia University and the University of South Carolina.

In 1973, she assumed the Dean of Student Affairs position as a temporary replacement for Dr. Anna Reuben, who then became the new Dean of Academic Affairs.

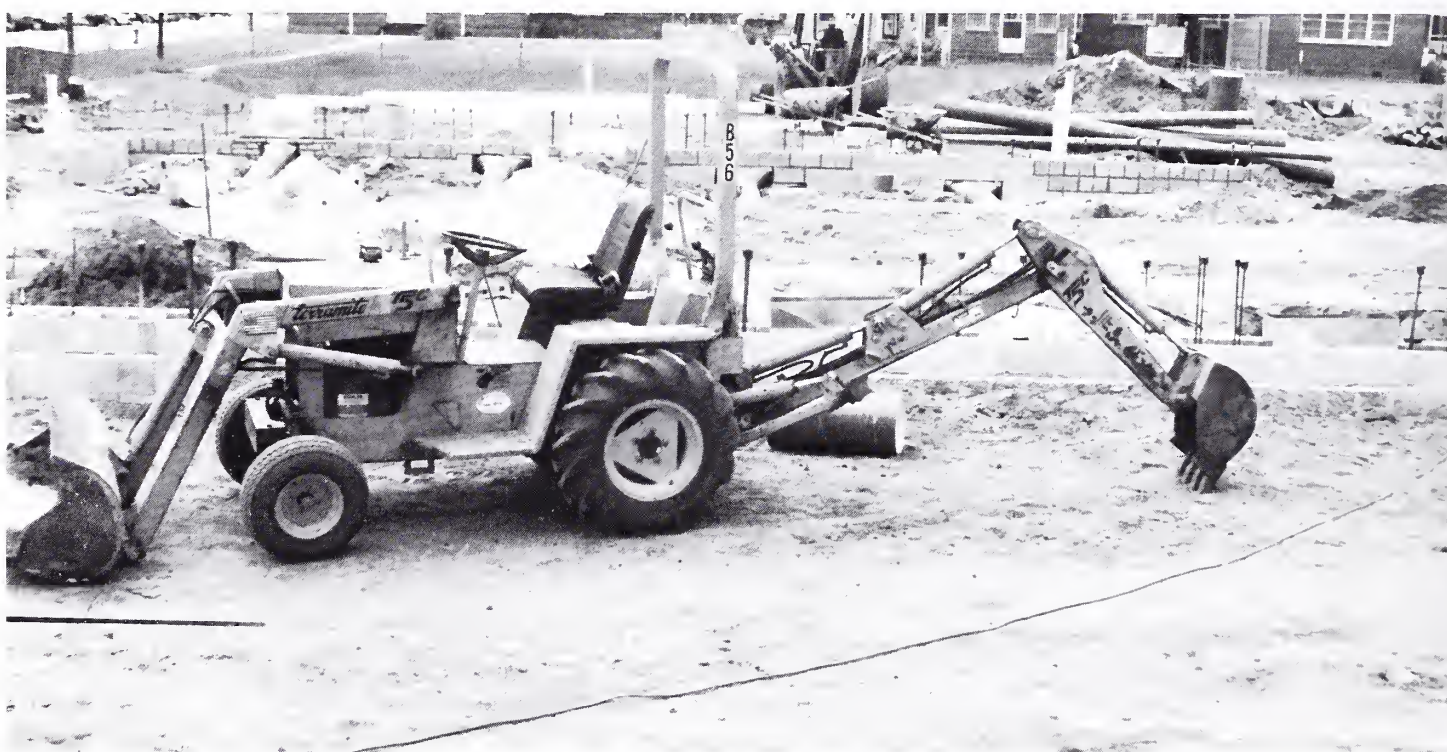

After retiring, Dean Black plans to devote full-time to her duties as pastor of Reid Chapel African American Episcopal Church, a congregation of approximately 100 in the Walnut Hills Community of Sumter. Additionally, she will serve as an official tour guide for Goodwill Shepherd Tours on trips to the Holy Land.

Rev. Black is a native of Florence and the wife of Mr. Theodore Black. They are parents of seven children.

Ground Broken for O. R. Reuben Chapel

Architect's Drawing

Groundbreaking Services for the O.R. Reuben Chapel and Religious Center at Morris College were held on May 10, during the 118th annual session of the Baptist Educational and Missionary Convention of South Carolina.

The $1.6 million facility will serve as a sanctuary for worship services as well as the home of religious studies on campus. It is named for the late Dr. Odell R. Reuben, president of Morris from 1948 to 1970.

Dr. Ed F. Johnson, E&M Convention president, has spearheaded fundraising efforts for the construction project.

Morris, established in 1908, is operated by the

Victory Savings Bank of Columbia, one of the nation's historic Black banks, is providing partial funding for the construction.

Dr. Johnson praised Victory's CEO, Mr. T.R. McConnell, for his valuable assistance in helping to arrange the financing for the chapel.

The building's architect, Mr. Harvey Gantt, is also Black. Mr. Gantt is co-founder of Gantt-Huberman Architects of Charlotte, NC and a former mayor of that city. In the 1960's, he was the first Black student to enroll at Clemson University.

Here's Looking at You

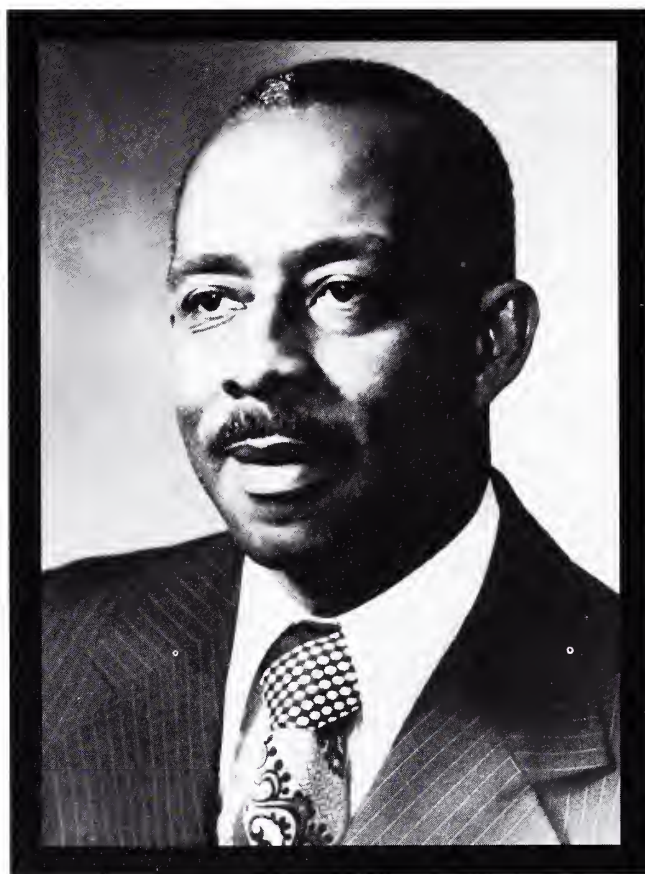

Former Trustee Chairman Dies

Rev. Dr. Westcott Allard Johnson, a distinguished Morris College alumnus and one of South Carolina's most prominent Baptist Church leaders, succumbed May 2, 1995, in his Georgetown home after an illness.

Funeral services were held May 5 at Bethesda Baptist Church in Georgetown, where he had pastored since 1956, and at Morris College on May 6 following the college's annual commencement convocation.

During his career as an educator and churchman, Dr. Johnson served a term as president of the Baptist Educational and Missionary Convention of South Carolina and as chairman of the Board of Trustees of Morris College.

Rev. Dr. W. A. Johnson

He also served as a science and music teacher in the public school system of Loris, South Carolina, and taught with the Morris College School of Religion Extension Program.

The L.C. Richardson-W.A. Johnson Learning Resources Center on the Morris College campus is named in his honor.

Morris Hosts Baptist Women's Meeting

Morris College hosted the 106th Annual Session of the Woman's Baptist Educational and Missionary Convention of South Carolina June 14-17. The theme of this year's convention was "Christian Women: Activating and Effectuating the Great Commission by Teaching Christians the 'How and Why' of witnessing."

One of the highlights of the convention was a banquet program dedicated to Dr. Mamie N. Coker for 11 years of dedicated services as head of the state's largest Black women's organization. Under her leadership, the women have raised more than $1 million for Morris College.

Dr. Coker's tenure ended in January 1995. Dr. Arabella Hester Rich, a Morris College alumna and trustee, was elected during the convention to lead the women to the year 2000.

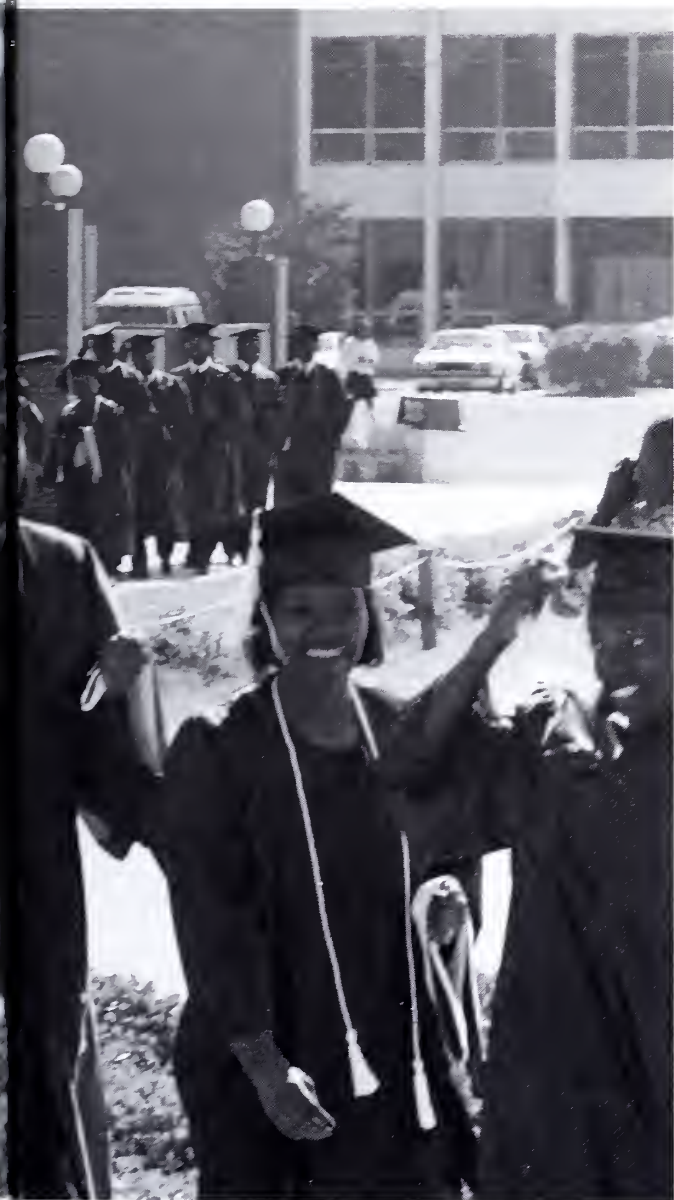

Other elected officers are Mrs. Jacqueline Canty of Florence, first vice president; Morris College Trustee Dr. Lucille Whipper of Charleston, second vice president; and Mrs. Claudette Cureton of Greenville, third vice president.

COMMENCEMENT

Chief Justice Finney

Grads Challenged to Serve Others

Chief Justice Ernest A. Finney, Jr. of the South Carolina Supreme Court told 100 graduating seniors at Morris College that they must exercise one of two inevitable options as they journey into the future: "either surrender or self-actualize."

Speaking at the 84th commencement convocation May 6, Finney, the first Black to serve on the high court since Reconstruction, declared:

"To chose the option of surrender means either to join the mindless rush toward political, social and professional mayhem, or to evade the dilemma of coping with the present difficulties in the hope that the destructive forces of crime, its by-products and other social ills will soon run their course.

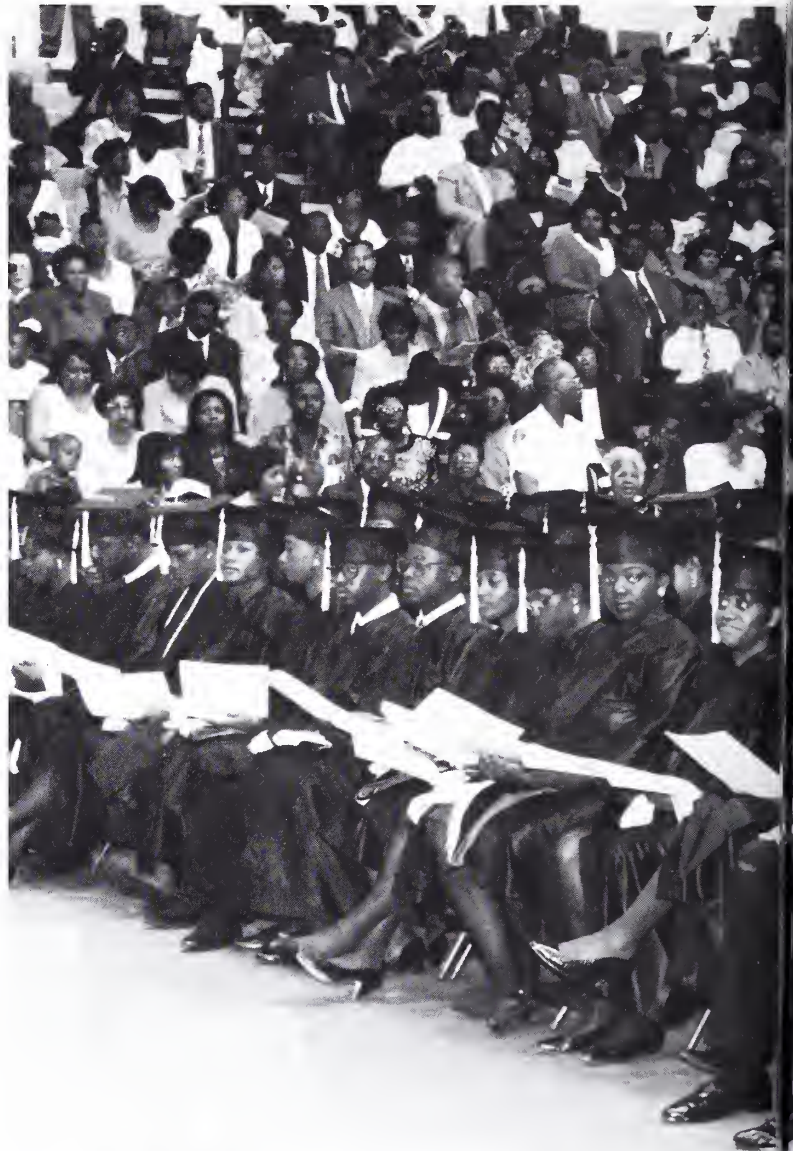

"If you surrender to apathy, self-indulgence, avrice or idleness, I believe that you will forfeit the fulfillment of your hopes and dreams and dishonor the blood which your foreparents shed to gain freedom and dignity."

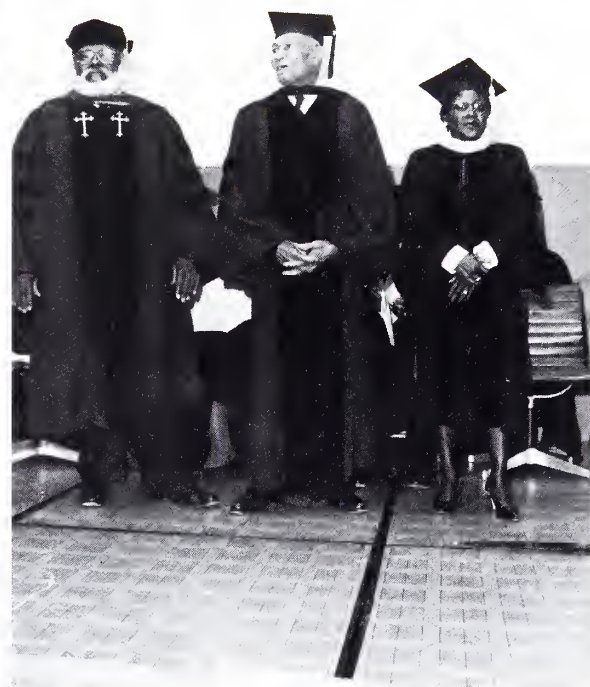

The Chief Justice reminded the Class of 1995 that they have the second option of embarking upon a course of personal development and involvement for the revitalization of their social environment.

"Indeed, you and your generation hold the key to the future of our society, and nothing less than a total commitment of your minds, resources and energy will achieve a state of total well-being," said Chief Justice Finney, a Sumter resident who was a prominent civil rights lawyer, state representative and circuit court judge before being elevated to the Supreme Court in 1985 and elevated to chief justice last December.

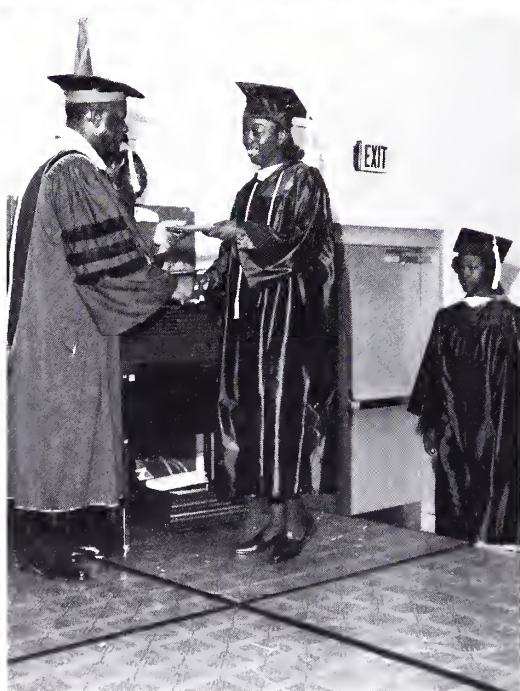

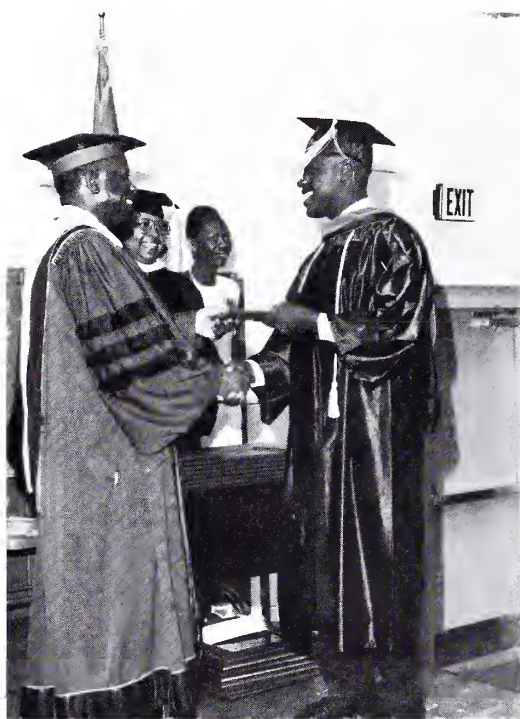

He stressed that a college degree requires responsibility, and he reminded the graduating seniors that Morris College has provided them the opportunity to prepare for and to pursue careers of service.

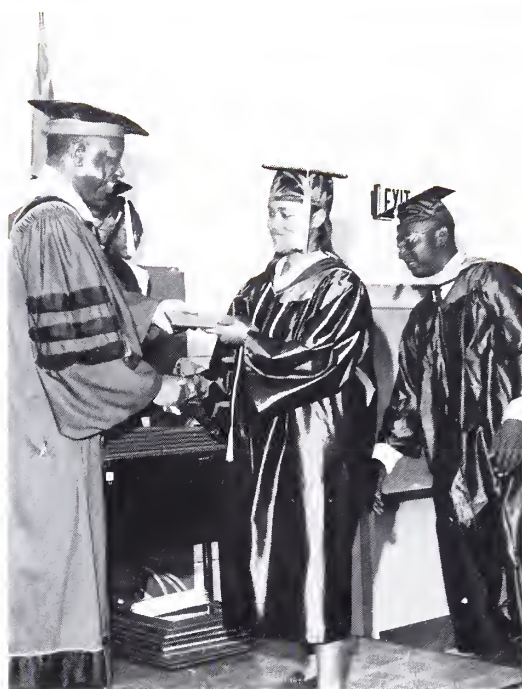

"Stir up the gift that is within you, so that you may become an instrument of change," he said. "I challenge you to chart a course of self-actualization with the ultimate goal of revitalizing your surroundings."
